- Innovations: Gambia's dynamic webpage (in progress)

<http://www.afrimet.org/paises/gambia.htm>

The screenshot displays two side-by-side Internet Explorer windows. Both windows have the title 'Member of the Forum of Directors of the West African NMHS - Windows Internet Explorer'.

The left window shows a list of member countries under the heading 'Who we are'. The countries listed are: BÉNIN (Service), BURKINA FASO (Direction), CAP-VERT (Instituto), CÔTE D'IVOIRE (Direction), GAMBIE (Department of Water Resources), GHANA (Meteorological Services Department >>), and GUINÉE (Direction Nationale de la Météorologie >>). The 'GAMBIE' entry is highlighted with a red border.

The right window provides detailed information about Gambia. It features the Gambian flag and the word 'Gambia'. Under the heading 'BASIC INFORMATION', it states: 'The Department of Water Resources is currently under the Ministry of Fisheries, Water Resources and National Assembly Matters. The Ministry of Fisheries, Water Resources and National Assembly Matters is the government policy institution responsible for fisheries and water resources. Its mission statement reads: "to monitor the weather and climate in order to harness their positive impacts and to provide lead-time information for protection against negative impacts; develop and maintain rational and judicious exploitation and use of the national surface and ground water resources and fish products, guaranteeing a healthy, decent and sustainable standard of living for all, now and posterity".'

Below this, there are sections for 'Department of Water Resources', 'Legal Status and Mandate', and a bulleted list of functions and responsibilities of the DWR.
